Hope & Happiness Chengdu Youth 2010

Show the World We Care!

WHY BRING THEM OVER?

The magnitude 8 earthquake that struck the province of Sichuan China in 2008 created thousands of orphans.

Buildings, schools and city infrastructures are being re-built at a rapid pace to insure that life will return to normal for those who have been affected by this earthquake.

One sector of the population that will not be able to return to normal are the orphans that have been created by this disaster. No amount of funding will ever give them back their parents who have been sadly taken away from them by this earthquake.

To bring some hope and happiness to some of these orphans, we are hoping to bring over 18 more to Edmonton for 10 days this summer.

This will allow them to get away from the area of destruction for a while so that they too can enjoy what Edmontonians can offer, our hospitality and generosity.

We are hoping to raise enough funds to bring over this second delegation of Chengdu Youth.

WHAT WAS SAID ABOUT THE LAST VISIT

We asked, and this is what they had to say:

"I love this city and as for the earthquake ... actually, now I think we are coming back to the normal life. Everything is going better."

CBC Radio Quoting Yu Zhou

"Last year they lost their family members and now they could have the feeling of home here because we have so many kind people."

Zeng Jing Chengdu's Foreign Affairs Office

"Through the efforts of our amazing Chinese Community we are able to bring the orphans over here, Edmonton has reached out to these youth."

Mayor Stephen Mandel
